Date of Fact Sheet: 5 April 2012

A Essential Information	B Useful information
1. Name of alleged victim/s Father Jeong-hyun MOON	Nationality: Republic of Korea Age: 72 Occupation: Catholic priest
2. Status of the victim as a human rights defender Father Jeong-hyun Moon is a prominent human rights defender who has worked for peace, environmental rights, freedom of peaceful assembly and freedom of expression. Father Moon was recently selected as the winner of 2012 Gwangju Prize for Human Rights. Below is an extract from the Statement of 2012 Gwangju Prize for Human Rights. “As a Catholic priest, referred to as a street father, during his whole life he has been always beside the isolated and the suppressed sharing their pains and inspiring hope. Through the life of Father Moon we are once again enlightened that democracy, human rights and peace are for and because of those who struggled for these things. We express our sincere concern to him, as he is currently hospitalized from falling in Gangjeong, Jeju.”	Jeju island is located at the southern part of the Republic of Korea. Jeju, the Island of Peace appointed by the Government, is experiencing harsh conflicts because the Ministry of Defence and the Navy of the Republic of Korea are enforcing the construction of a naval base at Gangjeong village without proper consultation with villagers. The naval base construction at Gangjeong is being pushed under the name of national project while human rights violence is frequently employed. People in Gangjeong village have been protesting for years against government’s violence and attempts to construct the naval base. Problems of constructing naval base in Gangjeong 1. Ongoing human rights violation against villagers, peace activist, and environmental defenders From 2010 to 14 April 2012, 442 people were arrested for their participation in peaceful demonstrations against the naval base project. The arrestees include catholic priest, protestant pastor, human rights defenders from other countries like the UK and France as well as Korean human rights

	defenders, and most of all, villagers of Gangjeong. 2. No proper consultation with villagers In April 2007, only 87 out of 1,900 villagers participated in a town meeting that decided to host the naval base in Gangjeong village. The announcement was made only four days before the meeting was held. In August 2007, a referendum on the naval base proposal held in the Gangjeong village resulted in an overwhelming opposition by 94% of the villagers. Despite this, the government has continued with the project. This is indeed an affront to the rights of the people of Gangjeong village, particularly their right to take part in the decision-making process affecting their community. 3. Environmental damage The coast of Gangjeong village, where is right next to the naval base construction site, is classified as a Biosphere Reserve by UNESCO. The construction of a naval base will destroy the seashore, which is inhabited by a number of endangered marine species, bringing long-lasting negative impact to the environment and ecology.
3. Alleged violation/s committed against the victim Father Moon has been arrested around 5 times in total. 30 September 2011 Father Moon and two other catholic priests were holding a mass in front of the construction site. The police arrested them during the mess and kept them for 48 hours. 6 October 2011 Father Moon and seven other human rights defenders were protesting against the trial blast of navy and were arrested. All of them except one, Mr. Min-su Kim, were released on 7 October 2011.	In Korea, police can detain a person without detention warrant up to 48 hours.

30 January 2012 Father Moon was arrested at the construction site under the charge of obstructing business and was released on 31 January. Together with other human rights defenders, Father Moon stopped the construction vehicle from entering Navy Base Construction Business Committee Site. 6 April 2012 Father Moon was conducting Way of Cross (Via Dolorosa) on the west seawall of Gangjung. While confronting police officers, Father Moon fell down from 7m high and had spine fractures. He is currently staying in a hospital. This accident happened because navy police unnecessarily oppressed peaceful human rights defenders. Police totally blocked all the roads towards Gangjeong port which is away from construction site by using bus, boats and police forces. The west seawall where Father Moon fell off is also not a construction site and therefore, there is no ground reason to block peaceful protesters' movement. As a result, one individual sued Mr. In-tae Yeo, the chief police officer of Seogwipo Cost Guard and two police officers who confronted Father Moon, under the charge of accidental harm during official duties and abuse of their authority.
4. Alleged Perpetrators Ministry of Defense, Navy of the Republic of Korea, Prime Minister's Office, The National Police Agency (Seogwipo Police Station and Seogwipo Cost Guard)	Witnesses A number of peace activists, human rights defenders, and villagers who were present during the arrest.
5. Action by authorities On 22 February 2012, President Myung-bak Lee mentioned during his 4-year inauguration speech that he would continue to push construction of Jeju naval base. On 23 February 2012, closed meeting among the relevant authorities was held by the Prime Minister's Office. On 6 March 2012, the	Action taken by the victim or by human rights organizations One hundred and twenty four Korean organisations including peace organisations, environmental organisations, and religious organisations established a National Network of Korean Civil Society for Opposing to the Naval Base in Jeju Island. Since May 2011, the network has showed its

Prime Minister's Office made it clear that they cannot postpone the construction even though errors were found in the plan. The Office also emphasised that it will strictly prohibit people from holding "illegal" actions against the construction of navy base in Jeju. On 16 April 2012, the Seogwipo Police Station notified the Gangjeong Village Committee that it is not allowed to hold any demonstration from 15 April 2012 to 12 May 2012. The prohibited six areas are Gangjeong stream gym park, parking lot, in front of the Navy Base Construction Business Committee, in front of the construction site, Jungduk three-way intersection, and Gangjeong port. In addition to this, marching from Gangjeong stream gym park to Gangjeong port and Gangjeong meeting hall is also prohibited. This is almost all parts of Gangjeong that are related to navy base construction. The prohibition is based on Article 5 of the Act on Assembly and Demonstration. The police said that "people had sit-in protest in front of the construction site and it obstructs business". The police blocked all possible demonstration in abovementioned areas including peaceful assembly and demonstration.	solidarity to Gangjeong villagers and raised problems of constructing naval base in Gangjeong village. The network is doing actions including provide legal aid, lobby to the parliament, hold press conference on human rights violation in Gangjeong, organized people to visit Gangjeong to show solidarity to villagers. PSPD is the secretariat of the network. Internationally, several NGOs and individuals sent solidarity message to villagers of Gangjeong, Jeju. These messages include below: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Statement of Support by the Right Livelihood Award Laureates for the Non-violent Struggle against the construction of the Korean/USA Naval Base in Gangjeong (27 March 2012) - Joint Open letter to President of South Korea on Construction of Naval Base and Arrest of Demonstrators in Jeju Island (FORUM-ASIA, FIDH, OMCT and 28 other Asian NGOs, 21 March 2012) - Statement of Gwangju Prize Laureates Against Navy Base on World Peace Island Jeju (16 March 2012) - Noam Chomsky, Professor Emeritus of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), sent a solidarity message to Gangjeong villagers (30 September 2011) - International Statement in support of Gangjeong Village (Global Network Against Weapons & Nuclear Power in Space, 8 June 2011)
6. Link between the violation and human rights work Father Moon was arrested and harassed by the police because of his work as a peace activist and environmental defender. He has been defending villagers' right to have a peaceful life and their environmental rights.	Previous incidents As of 14 April 2012, 442 people were arrested and/or detained. For more details, please see the table in the Annex. Samsung C&T and Daerim, two construction companies claimed for damage against 10 villagers including Mr. Gang and they are now facing around 289,780,000KRW (around 255,000 USD). The case is still in process at the court. Below is major human rights violations happened in Gangjeong in the past:

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - 16 April 2012: Some human rights defenders connected their arms with PVC pipes and made a human wall to prevent a construction vehicle from entering the construction site. The police used electronic saw to cut that PVC pipes which had attached to human rights defenders arms. The police continued to use the saw to cut it even though human rights defenders were screaming out of fear. The saw was not strong enough to cut the PVC pipe but 14 protesters including one catholic priest were arrested during this struggle. - 15 March 2012: Mr. Benjamin Monnet, a French activist, while Ms. Angie Zelter, a peace activist and Nobel Peace Prize nominee from the UK was asked to leave the country. Both of them were actively participated in the peace movement in Gangjeong. - 19 May 2011: Nine people including villagers and human rights defenders who were peacefully protesting were taken to police station. - 14 March 2012: Three Veterans For Peace members from the US who came to Korea to support peace movement in Jeju, Gangjeong was denied to enter the country at the airport without ground reason. - 30 September 2011: Three religious pastors were arrested while they were having a mass at the navy base construction site. They were arrested under the charge of interfering businesses. - 2 September 2011: Around 600 police officers entered Gangjeong village and arrested more than 35 people including catholic priests, nuns, human rights defenders and peace activists. - 24 August 2011: The police arrested and detained Mr. Dong-kyun Kang under the charge of interfering businesses. - 7 July 2011: The police applied for an injunction to 76 people including Mr. Dong-kyun Kang, under the charge of obstructing businesses.
